The City of Lawrenceburg plays a major role in disaster preparedness through its support of the Lawrenceburg/Lawrence County Emergency Management Agency.

The City Administration Complex is now the designated as the Emergency Operations Center, with recent upgrades in emergency power, radio communications, phone and computer systems to support activities during disasters and emergencies.

The EMA Department also occupies the former Lawrenceburg Fire Station #2 at 1207 North Locust Avenue for the staging of emergency response equipment.

Emergency Management is defined to include the phases of Mitigation, Preparedness, Response, and Recovery. The Emergency Management Agency serves in a coordination role with all local, state, and federal agencies to accomplish these phases.

Lawrence County has a great deal of experience in dealing with natural disasters. There were nine Presidentially-declared events from 1991-2003, including four floods, three tornadoes, and two ice storms. Many other lesser events have also occurred.
